
Conditional zero-delay model. Classical flux is an unproved channel proxy.
No physical return amplitude, supported throat or backward travel has been established.